News of the DCGS 2013

Sept. 23, 2013 Chapter Meeting Program

At the September 23 meeting, Michael McMaster presented the program Henry County and the Great War. Mr. McMaster has authored a book on this topic after reading through all of the county's German newspapers. He began his presentation with examples of how there were some real anti-American efforts. One such example was that German ambassador Von Bunstorff was given 150 million dollars to justify in newspapers the German side in the war and also for sabotage purposes. The goal of sabotage was to destroy armaments and shipping going to Britain and France. On July 30, 1916, the greatest destruction of munitions occurred when fires were set on Black Tom Island. The explosions rocked all of New York City.

In Henry County, the League of American Patriots of Henry County was established to counteract anti-American sentiments. In March 1918 it boasted of 4000 members. Its goals were to arrest and try those who appeared not loyal to America. However, those arrested and tried were mostly people in the opposing Democratic party. They also hoped to remove the German language from the German-speaking schools.

To counteract this persecution, on July 4, 1918, the German Americans held a loyalty parade collecting money for the war effort and the Red Cross. Joining in the parade were the mayor, the sheriff, and the prosecuting attorney. The beginning of the end for the League came when the League began shaking down the local businessmen. Even their own delegate P.C. Prentiss turned on the League, and as an attorney he promised to defend those who were unjustly accused. Added to that, the local newspapers refused to print any more articles for the League.

October 28, 2013 Chapter Meeting Program

Chapter member Rich Rozevink showed photos of and provided information about Defiance's Civilian Conservation Corps. Camp 571 (as well as the other CCC camps) was developed in order to provide work for young men following the Great Depression. Projects around Defiance such as ditching, planting trees, and building shelter houses at Independence Dam allowed the young men to keep recreational money of $5.00 per month for themselves while giving $25.00 of their earnings to help support their families at home. The camp was located on East Second Street near the old hospital and remained active until the end of 1941.

On December 22, 1941, the Defiance County commissioners voted to accept the buildings formerly used by the Defiance CCC. The buildings and additions numbered 19 with 5 of them designated as barracks. Later these building were used to house German Prisoners of war during World War II.

Nov. 25, 2013 Chapter Meeting Highlights

“Come Blog with Me” was the title of Dianne Kline’s program. She noted that a blog is like a web site which hosts a collection of postings. To set up a blog, she noted that one should 1) decide the purpose of the blog, 2) find a good hosting site (Wordpress.com or www.blogger.com are two examples she mentioned.), 3) create a suitable name for the site, 4) decide if you want to monetize the blog, 5) decide what contact information to post.

Blogs are valuable for genealogists in that data and photos can be shared, and new relationships can be discovered as well as gaining new information or photos of ancestors. Postings are archived and may be revisited by all participants.

Throughout her presentation, Dianne used examples from her blog, “At the Riverbend,” as well as showing how to set up a blog site.

Highlights of the DCGS Board for Sept.-Nov., 2013

The board approved a motion that $100 be donated to the Tuttle Museum as an honorarium in Rich Rozevink’s name for his presentation at the October banquet.

President Brown noted that she had given a talk to the residents at Glen Park in later August outlining what the chapter is and what it does. She noted about 50 people were in attendance.

The dedication of the Camp Trimble marker near the county sheriff’s office was held Sunday, October 20. Camp Trimble was a Civil War training site.

President Brown noted that the office for corresponding secretary is still needed for 2014.

In November, President Brown spoke with representatives of the Defiance Public Library. Jennifer Ziegler, the Community Relations Coordinator, noted that she will be working on publicity for the second microfilm reader. Marilyn Hite, the director, noted that the genealogy room should be finished by October 2014

Family Chronicle’s Top Web Sites

From a survey from the Family Chronicle, these were the top sites mentioned of the more than 1300 sites.

Cyndi’s List of Genealogy Sites on the Internet: This is probably the most popular genealogy index on the web. Cyndi’s site features over 16,800 links, categorized and cross-referenced, in over 60 categories, and is updated with impressive frequency.

US GenWeb: This site serves as the entrance to the massive US GenWeb project, wherein volunteers across the US maintain linked websites about their states and counties. This page contains information about the project and links to state-level GenWeb sites.

RAND Genealogy Club: This site supports the Roots Location List, Roots Surname List and a Soundex converter, as well as many links organized either by type or by regional, ethnic or religious groupings.

Rootsweb: The website of the genealogical data co-operative offers several different services to the genealogical community, including web-page hosting, search indexes and registries. This site tries to offer links to actual information, not just links to links.

Helm’s Genealogy Toolbox: An attractive site with links to several tools of use to genealogists, including various guides and indexes, area-specific information and data on associations of interest to genealogists.

Family Tree Maker Online: The only commercial site to make it into our top ten, the FTM site offers an extensive "how-to" guide, a genealogy mall, the 115-million-name Family Finder index, message boards, a biography assistant and more.

GENDEX: In spite of its rather plain appearance, Gene Stark’s Index of Names for all Gen Web Sites is loved by many genealogists. Data on over two million individuals, collected from hundreds of webpages, can be viewed on this single site.

Genealogy Is My Hobby: A great site to visit when you’re doing genealogy late at night and in danger of falling asleep. Lots of bright colors, lots of enthusiasm and lots of webmaster Pam Middleton-Lee’s favorite links.

The follow continues a listing (continuing from 2013 issues of Yesteryears' Trails) of 1812 soldiers related to Defiance County. The listing will continue in the 2014 newsletters. For more information about individual veterans, contact the Veteran's Service Commission at 419-782-6861.
